

4-5 When work is a pain

The UK's most inexperienced workers are being dropped in the fastest, most out-of-control jobs - and are at high risk of strain injuries as a result.

6-13 News in brief

Stop breathing problems. Rogue directors. Businessmen behaving badly. Fatal fibre fightback. Chile bans asbestos. Compensation in jeopardy. Asbestos conference. Night work cancer. Millions for sick miners. EU toxic phase-out plan. Clean computers. What price on your life? Worse than ever at work. Construction's roving reps. Unsafe in the NHS. Chemicals to go. Stop shouting, start talking.

14-15 Thoroughly modern militancy

Trade unions need modern approaches to the hazards of modern workplaces. TUC survey reveals the harm caused by work.

16-17 What's your body worth?

Civil law compensation sets a price on your body - Hazards looks at the going rate for bodies broken by work.

18 Maintaining standards

A new British Standard for safety is useful, but can't be a substitute for properly enforced safety laws.

20-25 What the unions say

Camera in the works. Dirty workplaces. A £320 million pain. Vote with your feet and save your neck. Safety Bill. Farm scandal. Spies on your back. Get a Voice. Ford motors down the partnership road. The Hazards Questionnaire. Life is cheap.

Stop the carnage:
National construction
shutdown on 27 February.
